• Producers will be charged $650 per bull. Nomination form and non-refundable deposit of $50/bull is due by October 1. This payment shall be made by check payable to Cornell University. Cash is not accepted.

• Cattle must meet all requirements listed on the Test rules sheet. Cattle arriving without a negative BVD test report will NOT be allowed to participate in the Test.

• Producers will be consulted in the event of poor performance or other non-routine health care.

• Final payment of $600 for each bull will be made by check upon delivery of bulls to the test station January 8 or 9.

• Cornell University shall not be responsible for the death, loss of, or injury to any cattle consigned to the Test.

• Any pictures, data or promotional information gathered on cattle participating in the Test may be used by Cooperative Extension and Cornell University. Producer’s names will be included in the periodic updates.

• Producer acknowledges and agrees that his/her participation in the Test is voluntary, that the Test is experimental in nature, and that Cornell University does not guarantee bull performance.
