Michael A Lewis is Professor of Operations and Supply Management at the University of Bath School of Management. His current research interests include asymmetric service delivery (in particular in health and social care settings), the management of professional/knowledge-intensive work, behavioral perspectives on procurement, Redistributed Manufacturing and functional (e.g. operations) strategy practice.

His research has been published in numerous journals including Journal of Operations Management, Production and Operations Management, British Journal of Management, Organisation Studies, Omega and Harvard Business Review and a series of books (e.g. Operations Strategy, 4e, co-authored with Nigel Slack, published in 2015). He currently serves as an Associate Editor for the Journal of Operations Management and on the editorial boards of International Journal of Operations and Production Management and the Journal of Purchasing and Supply Management.

Trained as a manufacturing engineer, before moving to Bath, Mike was senior lecturer (Associate Professor) at Warwick Business School. He has also been a visiting (assistant) professor at the McDonough School of Business, Georgetown University and is currently visiting professor at Danish Technical University.